Risk Analysis Made Easy

Environmental, health and safety risks are everywhere. At any given time, there is a long list of JSAs, HAZOPs and other risk assessments that must be completed, reviewed, and updated. Tight budgets and an accelerating pace of business make it even more difficult to keep up. If you're responsible for identifying and managing workplace risks, it can be overwhelming just figuring out where to begin.

No matter how complex a job or process may be, our solution allows you to break it down into individual tasks or steps to identify and document their associated risks. With just a few clicks, you can then schedule and assign corrective actions, assess residual risk upon completion, and perform comparative analysis of process alternatives to help chart the course of action with the lowest risk.

VelocityEHS Risk Analysis gives you the ability to document, analyze and resolve risks all with one centralized system, and helps you get a complete picture of the EHS risks in your organization.

The greatest risk is not knowing the risks

As the person responsible for managing EHS and sustainability, it's your job to identify the risks that put your organization, and your employees in harm's way. The consequences of unmitigated risk can range from near misses to catastrophic accidents, potentially causing irreparable damage to your business and its reputation.

Unfortunately, one person alone can't foresee every risk resulting from the operations of your business. Your employees encounter those risks on a daily basis, and are an invaluable resource for identifying and eliminating them. VelocityEHS Risk Analysis helps leverage your employees' experience to more effectively manage workplace risks.

Our solution makes it easy to coordinate your teams to perform risk assessments and assign corrective actions to take risk out of the equation. VelocityEHS helps you turn your workforce into a risk management task force.
