Ergonomics Made Easy

Musculoskeletal disorders (MSDs) are a leading cause of work-related injuries and a growing source of EHS risk, but the right ergonomics solution can help minimize the risk of MSDs and reduce the costs associated with lost productivity and injuries.

VelocityEHS Ergonomics offers expert-designed, web-based training and self-assessment to all of your employees for a fraction of the cost of traditional training and consultation. Employees can perform web-based training and self-assessments to identify and resolve their unique individual ergonomic risks. Convenient eLearning tools work with employees' busy schedules and reinforce ergonomic behaviors to promote a healthier, more productive workplace.

Traditional in-person ergonomic training is costly, and often fails to address the root causes of MSDs. VelocityEHS gives you the power to prevent MSDs with an enterprise-wide ergonomics solution that lets you train, evaluate, and monitor your employees' performance — all with one easy-to-use system.

The ROI of Office Ergonomics

OSHA estimates that a single MSD costs the average employer $82,305, and the typical Fortune 1,000 Company will pay $1.3 million for every 1,000 employees due to preventable ergonomic injuries. VelocityEHS offers a simple and cost-effective ergonomics solution that has been proven to resolve 70% of issues through web-based training and self-assessment.

For more complex or persistent issues, our solution provides a direct line to connect with qualified ergonomics specialists who will work with you to eliminate more severe ergonomic risks before they result in debilitating MSDs.

With VelocityEHS, you don't just get expert-designed ergonomics software. You get the expertise and support of an entire network of ergonomics professionals who are there when you need them.
