

Office Ergonomics You Can Feel Good About

A comprehensive cloud software solution that allows you to easily and cost-effectively deploy web-based office ergonomics training and self-assessment to every employee in your organization.

Core Capabilities

- Self-Assessment
- Training and Evaluation
- Corrective Actions
- Issue Resolution
- Reporting and Tracking

Ergonomics Made Easy

Musculoskeletal disorders (MSDs) are a leading cause of work-related injuries, and a growing source of risk for both workers and employers alike. Unfortunately, traditional ergonomics training and assessment is costly, and often fails to truly resolve the root causes of MSDs. Humantech office ergonomics software from VelocityEHS offers the fastest, easiest way to minimize the risk of MSDs and reduce costs associated with injuries and lost time.

Humantech lets you deliver expert-designed, web-based training and self-assessment tools to every employee across your organization for a fraction of the cost of traditional in-person consultation. Convenient eLearning tools work with employees' busy schedules while giving them the skills to identify their own individual risks, and improve the ergonomic fit of their own workstations.

For employers, Humantech gives you the power to prevent MSDs with an enterprise-wide ergonomics program that lets you train, evaluate, and monitor your employees' performance — all with one easy-to-use cloud-based system.

The ROI of Office Ergonomics

OSHA estimates that a single MSD costs the average employer $82,305, and the typical Fortune 1,000 Company will pay $1.3 million for every 1,000 employees due to preventable ergonomics-related injuries. Humantech office ergonomics software from VelocityEHS offers a simple and cost-effective ergonomics solution that helps employees virtually eliminate these issues through web-based training and self-assessment.

For any issues that remain unresolved, we offer direct access to our in-house team of certified ergonomists who will work with you one-on-one to eliminate more severe ergonomics concerns before they can result in debilitating MSDs.

With VelocityEHS' Humantech solutions, you don't just get expert-designed office ergonomics software. You get the expertise and support of an entire team of ergonomics professionals who are there to help when you need them.
