- Customizable Content (PowerPoint, SCORM)

Workplace Training Made Easy

VelocityEHS On-Demand Training is a comprehensive training management software solution that gives you unlimited access to nearly 100 expert-reviewed training courses covering a wide range of EHS topics. Anywhere, anytime access means workers can learn at their own pace, while instructors can easily engage workers with an interactive e-learning experience that has been shown to improve training retention.

But On-Demand Training is much more than just expert EHS training content. You also get access to our Learning Management System (LMS) that features versatile classroom management, tracking and reporting capabilities, and easy-to-use course development tools that let you build and import your own custom training course content using PowerPoint and SCORM formats.

On-Demand Training simplifies the tracking, evaluation, and documentation of training performance, and makes it easy to identify training gaps and maintain compliance. In short, VelocityEHS On-Demand Training gives you a centralized, cost-effective way to coordinate, deploy and manage training programs across your entire organization.

Today's workforce demands training solutions that give them the training they need, when they need it, and that accommodates their diverse learning styles. This can make selecting the right training content for your workplace training program a real challenge. It can be even tougher when you consider how your organization's training needs will evolve over time. The training that you need today might not be the training you need tomorrow.

That's why our On-Demand Training solution includes unlimited access to our growing library of nearly 100 pre-built EHS training courses so you can deliver the specific knowledge and skills your people need to work safely, now and in the future. No more extra or hidden costs to purchase training content on a course-by-course basis. With VelocityEHS, you'll have the ability to select and deliver the training your workers need, as soon as you know you need it.
