Training Beyond Compliance

Training is the first, most fundamental step toward ensuring your workforce possesses the knowledge and skills they need to stay safe and comply with a broad set of regulations, standards and policies. But compliance is just the tip of the iceberg, as businesses count on their EHS teams to deliver training that drives greater organizational performance and achieves broader quality and operational goals.

VelocityEHS Advanced Training & Learning is a purpose-built training software solution that gives EHS professionals an all-in-one system to coordinate and track your training activities, build and deliver custom interactive e-Learning content, and quickly visualize training performance to not only verify compliance, but drive long-term continuous improvement of your training program.

Our fully re-designed and intuitive user interface incorporates the latest UI design principles and e-Learning best practices to give your workers a more immersive and engaging learning experience that improves training retention. Trainers and managers can leverage its versatile training development and reporting features to simplify even your most complex training tasks and take your training program to new levels.

The Tools to Transform Your Training Program

Delivering training that drives productivity, quality and workforce development means implementing a training program that evolves with your organization's changing training needs. But developing and updating your course content, and managing your workers' professional development paths can be a huge drain on your time and resources unless you've got the right tools.

In addition to comprehensive training management capabilities, a growing library of expert-built e-Learning courses, direct SCORM content import and powerful reporting features, Advanced Training & Learning also gives you a versatile e-Learning Creation Tool that lets you instantly convert any PowerPoint file into a fully interactive e-Learning course complete with built-in multimedia, quizzes and knowledge-checks.
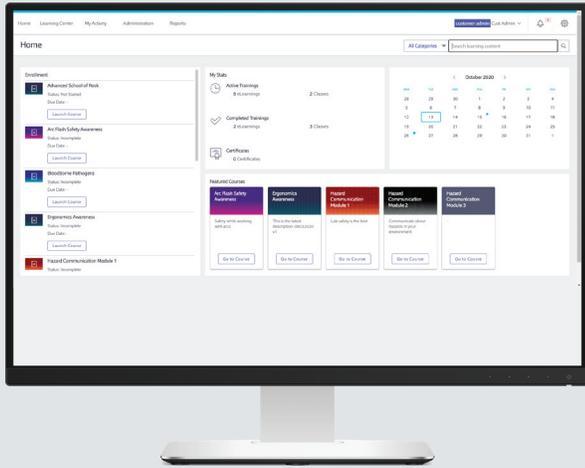

With easy-to-use tools for creating and delivering engaging training content to the right workers at the right time, Advanced Training & Learning provides the foundation for your organization to implement and maintain a blended learning strategy that meets today's training needs, and sets the stage for future training success.
