Data-Driven Decision Making

You can't be everywhere at once, even though that sometimes feels like the expectation. Our Safety Management Solution does the next best thing by giving you quick access to the good data you need to drive better decision making. You'll now be able to review safety data throughout your organization, perform trend analyses, and share critical safety metrics. We help you improve your actions management with built-in notifications when actions are coming due or past due, and dashboards that provide visibility of all actions across your locations.
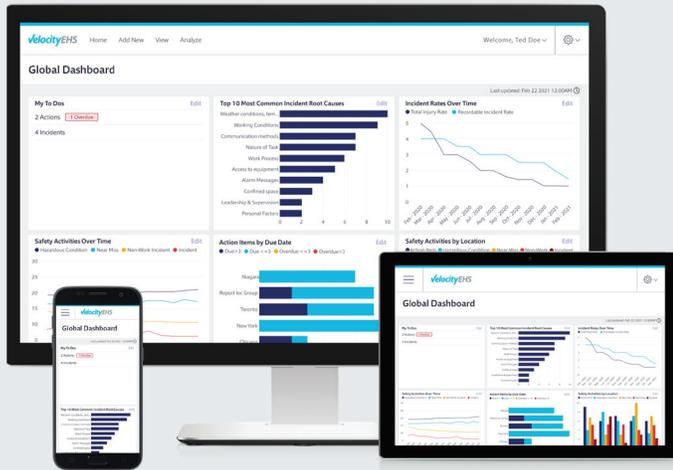

Our solution simplifies your reporting tasks, too. We give you the ability to create custom reports and schedule them for distribution to the right people, keeping all of your stakeholders in the loop and cutting down on your data-gathering time. User-configurable dashboards show you and your team, at a glance, the most important actionable safety indicators so you can more easily track your performance and identify opportunities for improvement. Best of all, you'll spend less time fielding requests for information, because it's all right there — accessible to all stakeholders.

Worker Engagement and Participation

When you're managing safety, you sometimes feel like you're going it alone — but there's a better way. Our Safety Management Solution gives you the ability to schedule safety meetings, log minutes, carry over pending topics and agendas, and track action items. You'll also be able to equip your people to report workplace incidents such as OSHA recordable injuries, near misses, and hazards easily and from anywhere, using any mobile device. You can also create custom inspection checklists that your people can deploy anywhere using a mobile device, which streamlines the data collection process and makes inspection follow-ups easy.

Promote a culture of risk awareness and early mitigation by empowering frontline workers to perform easy, effective and mobile-friendly task risk assessments (TRAs). You'll also improve buy-in to your safety culture and programs through the ability to share your progress on actions management with your entire workforce, making it more likely that they'll share information necessary to further improve workplace safety.

Safety Management provides an easier way for you to complete some of your most important safety management tasks.
